

CHARRED RUINS: Part of the burned house trailer at 1932 Fourth St. still hangs as precariously as it did the day fire destroyed the home on Aug. 6 of last year. Neighbors call the structure a hazard to the children in the area. Namekomi Township and county officials are attempting to remedy the problem, but red tape is stalling the removal of the charred trailer from private property.

Red tape blocks trailer removal

A burned-out mobile home at 1932 Fourth St., East Madison, located in Namekomi Township, remains a hazard and a potential death trap for neighborhood youngsters, families in the area said this week.

A fire occurred there on Aug. 6, 1986, in which a teenage girl died. The ruins of the house trailer were left untouched while an investigation was conducted by Madison County authorities.

The investigators have since released the burned home for removal from the site, but it has not been removed.

Residents who live in the immediate vicinity want the charred ruins to be taken away, and have signed petitions that request action.

Joan Spain, one of those circulating petitions, said the petitions may be presented to government officials but temporarily are being withheld, with the hope that authorities will proceed on their own.

Neighbors say they have contacted every local and county office and department that might have jurisdiction. So far, they said, they have heard a variety of reasons why Madison County and Namekomi Township cannot clean up the site.

Parents say there are about 30 children living within walking distance of the property.

The mobile home is not secured. All doors stand open, providing access to the interior.

A center section of the metal roof has collapsed and the almost razor-sharp edges are lying on the damaged floor of the mobile home. Jagged edges of broken windows protrude above the openings.

On one side of the trailer, the outside wall has fallen toward the ground but remains upright, at an angle. This portion is held up by burned timbers and it appears they could give way if a child crawled underneath.

Namekomi Township Supervisor Harry Briggs Sr. said, "I saw the need to remove the trailer but could do no more than refer my findings to Paul Hawkins of the Madison County Zoning and Building Office."

Hawkins said, "I do not have the authority to go onto private property and remove any type of building."

"I must refer the necessary papers — stating the need to have the building removed — to the state's attorney for court action."

Don Bridgick, former Madison police chief and now the Madison County Sheriff's liaison officer for contacts with the state's attorney, said, "We have tried to contact Elaine Holmes, listed as owner of the real estate property at the Fourth Street address, who should be the one to take responsibility to remove the mobile home."

"Owners of the house trailer are listed as Dennis and Carol Pigg, who cannot be located, either."

Attorney Bruce Goldstein, an assistant state's attorney on the staff of State's Attorney Dick Allen, has been given all reports and recommendations and is in the process of preparing for a court appearance on the matter, Hawkins said.

Illegal drug use by police alleged

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Allegations of illegal drug use among Granite City policemen has prompted 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak to call for some officers to be immediately tested.

Police Chief Bill Harris said he is formulating a testing policy for the department, which will be presented to the police union on Monday.

Perjak said she has heard allegations from citizens that a number of officers use illegal drugs.

"Apparently it's quite common knowledge," Perjak said, in short and heated conversations between Perjak and Harris before and after Tuesday's City Council meeting. Perjak said Harris told her that four officers were suspected of using illegal drugs.

"He named four. We should start testing with those who are suspected," Perjak said.

Harris, said he received an anonymous telephone call alleging that the four officers were using illegal drugs. He said he discussed the allegations with an internal investigation unit, but does not have evidence the officers are using illegal drugs.

"I have talked to officers involved in internal affairs investigations. They have been unable to come up with any evidence at this time. An investigation is continuing," Harris said. "If I have people on here using drugs, then they should be suspended."

He said he was not opposed to drug testing, but the testing should not single out police. "When the test develops a plan to test all city employees who may be suspected or alleged to use drugs," Harris said. He said the new department testing program will be limited to the city's clearly legally enforceable, though he did not specify what would be included in the testing program.

The city has no drug-testing policy.

City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said he is now researching legal issues involving drug testing and his initial findings indicate that mandatory and random drug testing for municipal employees is not on solid legal ground, though voluntary testing and required testing for new employees as a condition of employment may be acceptable.

Goldenberg also said recent court decisions indicate that cities must have probable cause to suspect an employee is using illegal drugs before the employee can be required to take a test.

Perjak was critical of Harris for not asking the officers to be tested now.

"My conversation with him was 'why aren't we doing anything?'" Perjak said. "To my knowledge he isn't doing anything," she said, referring to the allegations against the four officers.

When I'm told it's legal for me to do it, I'll do it," Harris said. He said he expected Goldenberg to produce a legal opinion on guidelines the city can follow for drug testing.

Goldenberg said his opinion will probably be presented at the council's July 7 meeting.

Perjak said she was unsure what actions would be taken if an officer was tested and found to be using illegal drugs, though she said suspension and requir-

Eticam construction delayed

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — A new processing plant that was scheduled for completion this year will not open at least until next year.

A lack of transportation and utility access have caused Eticam Inc. of Warwick R.I. to delay applying for several permits to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. The permits are required for Eticam's plant, which will treat industrial liquid waste, some of which is classified as hazardous by the EPA.

"It was made very clear to me that the EPA would not accept an incomplete application," said Alan Ortbals, city economic development director. Ortbals said Eticam could not apply for the permits until all access problems have been resolved. The property Eticam purchased, which is adjacent to the Tri-City Regional Port District and the Norfolk & Western Railway on Illinois 3, was not contiguous to Granite City, which is required in order for the city to issue industrial revenue bonds. Under EPA requirements, the plant also had to have access to Illinois 3 and all utility lines in the area.

Eticam has requested and received easements from various public bodies and utilities in order to be guaranteed access to utilities and roads. The easement and annexation process was more complicated and took more time than originally thought and was just completed last month, Ortbals said.

Meantime, Eticam used $3 million of the $9 million in revenue bonds the city approved for the company to buy equipment for the plant. The other $6 million is in a bank in Connecticut and is to be used for the construction. Eticam had set a ten-

Driver dies in collision with train

A 40-year-old retired truck driver was killed when his car collided with the engine of a Union Pacific freight train at 9:32 p.m. Thursday.

The crash occurred at the West Pontoon Road railroad crossing near Braden Avenue and Namekomi Road.

Joseph Corso, of 12 Georgetown Drive, Pontoon Beach, was driving east on West Pontoon. He apparently drove around a lowered crossing gate and past flashing lights before colliding with the train, several witnesses said.

His 1981 Cadillac was struck on the driver's side, and the auto was thrown between a double set of tracks at the crossing.

Mr. Corso received head and chest injuries and was pronounced dead at 10:17 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after persons at the scene and paramedics had tried unsuccessfully to revive him.

Train engineer Marshall L. Harmon of Salem, Ill., told police that the train was coasting southbound at about 25 mph on the west set of tracks before entering the West Pontoon intersection.

He said the headlight on the train had been on and he had used the engine whistle before approaching the crossing. By the time Harmon saw the automobile, he said, the engine had already struck it.

Neither the train engineer nor a fireman on board were injured.

Mitchell Presbyterian marks 90th anniversary

By Maxine Duniphan

Members of the Mitchell Presbyterian Church marked 90 years of history, with 50 years as a Presbyterian Church, at special services, June 7, Pentecost Sunday.

The commemoration program was sponsored by the Mitchell Presbyterian Ministers' work group within the church through the sale of commemorative plates. The plate design depicts the church both as the old and the new with a brief history on the reverse side.

The all-day services began with the 11 a.m. worship service. In the afternoon Charles Whitsell and his sister, Betty Tormino, sang individual solos with Rich Kindle in charge of the sound equipment. Shawn Elbert presented a dramatic reading, the Sweet Adelines quartet, Rainbow Special performed barbershop music, and the Kings Kids Puppets presented a religious skit.

Several recognition awards were presented. Among those were the awards given to members with a membership of 50 years or more. Those honored were William Norris, Mahle Norris, Howard Robertson, Dorothy Mitchell, Roy Mitchell, Betty Vogt, Blanche Timmons, Wendell Corey, Lois Weeks, Blanche Singer, Alta Routh, Clyde Norris, Martha Katzman, Velma Klein and Royce Timmons.

Informational booklets, recounting area history, were printed for occasion. Unfortunately early records do not give much accurate history on the founding of the church. However, historians have put together a plausible account of the background. With the aid of the few documents available and the oral accounts offered by some of the community elders.

According to these accounts, two brothers, John Jay and William Mitchell were pioneer cattle ranchers and farmers in the area now known as Mitchell.

Bar favors appointing all judges

It was not surprising in mid-June when merit selection of judges was recommended by the steering committee of a task force appointed by the governor. Such a change has been talked about for many years.

But there was considerable impact last week when the Illinois State Bar Association made a similar recommendation. The Bar's stand is of special interest because, in this state, all judges must be attorneys.

Perhaps the idea has a chance of enactment; the corruption that has been revealed among the Chicago judiciary makes people wonder whether almost any alternative might not bring better results than the present elective procedure (initial partisan voting, followed by no-opponent elections).

Both the task force and Bar proposals call for the governor to appoint jurists to the circuit, appellate and supreme courts. He would choose from among three candidates recommended for each vacancy by a citizen commission made up of six non-lawyers and five lawyers. Three of the non-lawyers would be chosen by the attorney general and the other three by the next-highest statewide elected official of the political party opposite that of the attorney general.

The task force favors the panel's five lawyers being picked by the Illinois Supreme Court. The Bar suggests choosing them in secret voting by lawyers who practice in the appropriate judicial district.

Both plans would require uniform selection of judges statewide. A third proposal, one that already is being considered by the General Assembly, would allow individual counties to decide on electing or appointing judges.

The latter legislation and the newly announced competing proposals undoubtedly will prompt an extensive — and informative — discussion of merit selection.

Sutures hang on in surgery

In normal surgery, sutures and staples are routinely used. But in micro-surgery, involving the eye, the ear, or other delicate portions of the body, sutures and staples cannot be used because they are so destructive to the surrounding tissue.

To get around this difficulty, procedures using glue have been developed.

Biopolymers, large molecules from living systems, are being used. The most successful method uses a mixture of human fibrinogen and cow thrombin.

The amount of cow thrombin determines how rapidly the glue sets. A small amount of thrombin may require several minutes, while a larger amount may only need a few seconds. In order to prevent any potential contamination from AIDS or hepatitis, the patient's own blood is used as the source of fibrinogen. This new "glue" is now being studied in ear surgery. The current success rate in ear surgery at present is about 60 to 65 percent.

The new "glue" is expected to increase the success rate to about 90 percent — a substantial improvement.

Additional work is also being done on synthetic polymers, especially the cyanoacrylates. These synthetic polymers have been used in some applications where staples and sutures are not suitable.

Veterinary surgery commonly makes use of these synthetic glues for animals, especially the joining of skin. But the cyanoacrylates are not completely satisfactory for many applications. They do not readily set in a water environment, and they do not readily degrade and disappear within the body.

An entirely novel approach to the surgical use of glue involves the natural glue used by mussels to anchor themselves to rocks.

The fact that this natural glue sets in water makes it an ideal candidate for use in eye surgery. Preliminary work using mussel glue in eye surgery is now under way and early results are encouraging.

The use of glue in surgery is moving forward at a rapid pace, with distinct improvements in benefits to patients.

about whether I am serving the public or my financial interest. But whether or not I have had hemorrhoids is not a matter the public needs to know.

Recently a reporter asked me, "Do you ever swear?" I responded that it is not really the kind of question that should be determining whether or not I would make a good president. I said, "I don't know."

Where we draw the line I am not certain, but we are overstepping the line, asking questions that really do not bear on what capabilities I would have as president.

What if a candidate flunked a course in high school? Is that really important to his or her candidacy today? Police files vary, but some contain unvalued reports that have absolutely no basis in fact, but are part of a file kept by police. Should the public be given that as "part of the police record," giving it a status it does not deserve?

We are too close to recent events to make good judgments. After the 1988 election a few thoughtful journalists and public officials and other citizens should get together to assess what we are doing to our democratic process.

I'm not sure what the right answers are, but if we shift public concern about capitalization to the low level of common gossip, we will have served our nation poorly.

Studying public and private lives difficult decision for media, public

One of the most difficult decisions for both the media and for public officials is how far the media should look into private life.

The media has a responsibility to probe into our private lives to the extent that a fundamental question can be answered: Can Paul Simon (or any other candidate) be trusted?

But when there is too much focus on private life, so that we do not pay attention to the major issues facing a potential president, then we have a problem. The dialogue of democracy then diminishes into meaningless gossip.

There is another important consideration overlooked in this process: We discourage able people from seeking high public office.

That is already a problem. Anyone seeking public office must understand the fishbowl nature of the public life. The probing goes beyond the question of whether a person can be trusted, then many qualify people are going to say, "Why go through this?"

I sense the dilemma we face both as a public official and as someone who is a journalist by background.

I'm not sure where we draw the line, but I know we are in danger of going too far.

For example, for respected newspaper, The New York Times, has requested authority to look into all my medical records, all my academic records, any records the police or FBI may have on me, and who my friends were in high school and college, as well as other things. My initial decision was the Times had gone too far, and that I should not comply. But because of the unusual circumstances in which we find ourselves, I have decided to err — if it is that — on the side of openness.

But I have notified the Times that I believe they have gone farther than is desirable. I do not want to appear to be hiding anything, but self-restraint is called for on the media's part.

The public has every right to know whether a candidate's current health is good. But what if a candidate 30 years ago had a social disease? What if 20 years ago a candidate had hemorrhoids? Are these really things that the public should know and be discussing?

The public is entitled to much greater detail on income, assets and liabilities than is now required by law. And I have always provided much greater detail than the law requires.

From my income statements people can make judgments about whether I am serving the public or my financial interest. But whether or not I have had hemorrhoids is not a matter the public needs to know.

Recently a reporter asked me, "Do you ever swear?" I responded that it is not really the kind of question that should be determining whether or not I would make a good president. I said, "I don't know."

Where we draw the line I am not certain, but we are overstepping the line, asking questions that really do not bear on what capabilities I would have as president.

next few months!!!!

Having attended Northwest High School in St. Louis at a time when 90 percent of the students were black, I can understand why Scott, or any man would find the cartoon objectionable.

When I was in school, blacks males were insulted to be called "boy." The term brings to mind the white overseer holding a whip and talking down to slaves.

For some blacks, it is a hurtful word. Why the pronoun was associated with capitalization is hard to understand — "Boy," with a capital "B."

The grammar is insulting: "Look like..." instead of "Look like..." The language attributed to the black youth unfortunately perpetuates the myth of racial inferiority.

Showing armed black youths walking near a sign that reads "C. O. K. 12-250 VICTIMS" is brutal. It gives the impression of blacks preying on whites though it is commonly known that black-on-black crime is reality.

If the intent of the cartoon is to show gang violence from East St. Louis as a problem entering Cahokia, the timing is peculiar considering that in a widely pub-

Letters

Don't give 'food stamps' to senators

To the editor:

Recently, the question of campaign financing has been debated on the floor of the U.S. Senate. At the same time, I have received hundreds of letters from concerned people who believe some kind of reform is needed.

I agree there are a number of areas in the present federal election law in which improvements could be made; however, before any changes are implemented, care must be taken to ensure that the reforms do not create more problems than they solve.

First, we must make sure outside interest groups cannot pour millions of dollars into campaigns and go completely unaccountable to the people.

Under the current system, these groups — whether they be labor or business — claim a pro-choice, pro-defense spending or for a nuclear freeze — contribute a lot of money through independent expenditures and never report to anyone.

Second, we must make sure that money is not funneled through national party committees to benefit a candidate for federal office. It is fully reported. In the past, business and labor groups have attempted to circumvent the federal campaign limits by using the means of support, which is called "soft money."

Third, we need to make sure that groups which claim a tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service are not participating in campaign activities contrary to their special tax status.

To the editor:

The Illinois General Assembly is scheduled to adjourn in a few days. The session may come to an end without passing any measures proposed by Gov. James R. Thompson to increase revenues.

Failure to pass a tax package will seriously jeopardize community prevention and treatment programs for citizens suffering from alcohol and other drug abuse as well as other critical health problems.

Through leadership of the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependence Association (IADDA), representatives of the alcohol and drug abuse field have launched efforts to obtain adequate funding for alcohol and other drug abuse prevention, education, intervention and treatment programs.

Initial efforts, including a proposal calling for a modest hike in the liquor tax, were defeated. Without additional revenues, existing programs may be cut dramatically. Such cuts would affect our ability to protect children and families from the devastation of alcohol and other drug abuse.

The problem is not a recent phenomenon. In Illinois alone, hundreds of thousands of persons suffer debilitating health effects. As president of IADDA and director of Treatment Alternatives to Street Crimes (TASC), a not-for-profit organization currently serving various alcohol and other drug abusing populations, I believe it is imperative to provide the necessary revenues.

Alcohol and drug abuse costs $7 billion annually in Illinois. More than half of this cost is due to reduced productivity in the work force.

The emotional costs of alcohol and drug abuse to individuals, their families, and entire communities are immeasurable. The effects of reduced resources, already inadequate, will be far-reaching and felt by all citizens.

Abuse is often the first step toward dropping out of school, unemployment and crime. The consequences of drug use are far greater for the developing mind.

For this reason, we need to focus our prevention and intervention efforts on our young.

Programs addressing the delinquent and criminal behavior often associated with substance abuse are the kinds that communities cannot afford to lose.

Through treatment, abusing offenders are offered the opportunity to take control of their lives and become productive citizens. If not given this opportunity for rehabilitation, juveniles and adults will continue to endanger families and communities.

TASC clients often await placement in residential facilities while incarcerated, thus contributing to overcrowded jails. Even with resources at current levels, those awaiting placement in treatment programs often experience a three- to five-month delay from the time of diagnosis to actual placement.

Intravenous drug users represent the second largest group at-risk for AIDS. The most effective way to reduce the incidence of the disease is to effect a change in behavior through treatment and education.

Support of the proposed tax increases is the only responsible choice we can make.

Editorial cartoon no laughing matter

An editorial cartoon that recently appeared in the Cahokia-Dupo Herald was signed by the president of the NAACP in East St. Louis, Johnny Scott, angry.

Editorial cartoons have a tradition of labeling political figures and pointing out community problems, as the cartoons in this paper do. The premise of editorial cartoon must be legitimate, however, to be acceptable.

The Herald's cartoon of June 24 is not acceptable to Scott.

In the cartoon, four youths are walking in Cahokia. They are armed. They seem to be gang members. They have exaggerated, oversized lips. They are black.

One of the youths tells the others, "Ok, Boys! Look like this is going to be our home for the lized incident, a black woman left the village after saying she was harassed by white people.

Cahokia Police Chief Richard Odum said there is no indication of a gang problem in Cahokia. The police blotter is not cluttered with arrested gang members.

With the exception of the St. Louis Journalism Review, newspapers generally don't talk about other newspapers. There's a sort of brotherhood type of thing, or perhaps fear that the newspaper's laundry is as dirty as another's, but this column has no sacred cows. Questionable journalism in this paper is discussed. That's what a media column should do.

No matter what, presumably noble intention is behind the cartoon, it was insensitive.

Union contract bill goes to governor

SPRINGFIELD—Legislation requiring new owners of firms to honor existing union contracts for up to three years was sent to Gov. James Thompson June 22.

The Senate approved the bill on a 50-7 vote, with Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, voting for it.

It was one of the major bills on which there was a labor and union split this legislative session. Unions pushed the bill as a defense against union contracts being voided in a wave of corporate takeovers or reorganizations.

Business organizations lobbied heavily against the measure as an infringement on acquisitions.

Senate sponsor Sen. Glenn Foschard, D-Carterville, argued that union contracts with a "successor clause" should have as much force under law as other obligations when a business is purchased.

Opponent Sen. George Hudson, R-Downers Grove, contended the measure would have a "chilling effect" on the sale of firms and is probably unconstitutional.

The legislation would specifically require new owners of firms to honor terms of existing union contracts until they expire, or up to three years after the acquisition, whichever came first.

On the first Tuesday of each month at 2:30 p.m., Vaughn Home Health Care sponsors an Alzheimer Support Group meeting at its office in the Bellemore Medical Building, 3165 Myrtle Ave., Granite City.

There is no charge for the meeting; it is held to provide family and friends of Alzheimer's victims the opportunity to exchange experiences and feelings with others in the same situation. The local support group is sponsored by the chapter in St. Louis.

State to honor 880 attaining age of 100

On July 1, as proclaimed by Gov. James R. Thompson, Centennarians Day will be observed in honor of Illinois citizens who are age 100 or older.

Illinois has taken the lead in the nation in identifying its centenarians, each of whom will receive certificates of lifetime achievement. Thus far, the names of 880 Illinois centenarians have come to the attention of the Illinois Department on Aging.

The department and the Governor's Office of Senior Involvement will be hosting a reception with entertainment and refreshments to honor west central Illinois centenarians at 1 p.m. at the Seniorama Senior Center, 701 W. Mason, Springfield.

State officials and legislators have been invited to attend the reception.

Holiday schedule at state driver offices

All Secretary of State offices and facilities will be closed for Independence Day, Sec. of State Jim Edgar has announced.

A. Yes, I can give you several. Security, dependability, and peace of mind... all of which add up to the safe deposit box. You have admitted you worry about your papers and end up taking the time to "dig them out." For a nominal cost, the safe deposit box provides immeasurable peace of mind for the safe guarding of important documents and valuables. Among the most common items found in safe deposit boxes are: bonds, mortgages, copies of insurance policies, certificates of title, certificates of deposit, and collections of coins, stamps or jewelry. Only the individual renting the box can gain access to its contents. To open your safe deposit box you must be identified by signature, before entering the vault where the boxes are kept. Your personal key and the bank's key are required to open the box. It's the safest place for your valuables and probably a lot easier for you to gain access to, rather than having to "dig it out."

Granite City police

Burglar takes recorder
A burglar ransacked closets and stole a video cassette recorder from the home of Martin Barzowski, 2730 Michigan Ave., June 12.

$300 bicycle stolen
Fred Torrez, 2101 Glen Drive, reported a teenage youth rode Torrez' bicycle away from Central Hardware, where he had left it June 12. The bicycle was valued at $300.

Juvenile near building
A 14-year-old Granite City boy, standing by Branding Service Station, 1183 Niedringhaus Ave., when officers arrived there at 3:25 a.m. June 13, was taken into custody. A window had been broken and a brick was found inside the building. An undetermined amount of change was missing.

Bikes, bug zipper taken
Two bicycles and an outdoor bug killer, with a total value of $250, were taken from the residence of William Pearman, 3705 Fair Oaks Drive, June 16.

County police

Two injured in mishap
Sheila A. Kelly, 31, of 2157 Bern Ave., was injured in a collision with a car driven by Richard W. Mathis, 17, of 2216 Bern, at 3:30 p.m. June 13 at Wabash Avenue and Dawn Place, Madison County authorities said.

A passenger in Mathis' auto, Kerrie O'Dell, 18, of 15 Reta Court, was also injured. Both Kelly and O'Dell were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Mathis was charged with failing to wear a seatbelt. Kelly was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

$1,200 taken from auto
Donald Ward, Huntington, Pa., said $1,200 in traveler's checks and clothing were taken from his car at a motel parking lot on East Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell. Other items missing included a radio and sunglasses. The burglary was discovered at 6:25 a.m. June 20.

Madison police

Hose stolen from yard
Ed Warhol, 908 Washington Ave., reported a 50-foot garden hose was taken from his yard on the evening of June 23.

Man booked for battery
Susan Finch, found lying on the porch at 1014 Greenwood St. at 11:30 p.m. June 20, told police she had been beaten by Michael Peterson, who was sitting on the porch steps when officers arrived. Peterson was arrested and booked for battery. Finch was taken away by ambulance but later declined treatment, authorities said.

Arrested for battery
James Menzie, 41, of 2050 Edwardsville Road, was arrested at 7:10 a.m. June 21 and booked for battery on a complaint signed by Barbara McGhee. He was released on a notice to appear July 31 at Granite City court.

Auto stolen from lot
A man with long brown hair drove off with the 1982 Plymouth Reliant station wagon of Olaf Turmo, 1500 State St., at 4:55 p.m. June 11. Turmo had left the car in a parking lot at 22nd Street and Grand Avenue. When he returned, he saw the man driving his car south on Madison Avenue.

Husband, wife arrested
Larry T. Acord, 29, of 906 Niedringhaus Ave., and Sherry Lee Acord, 21, of 1638 23rd St., were both booked for battery June 18 after a neighborhood dispute with a girl, 16. It was alleged Mrs. Acord jumped on the back of the girl and her husband, Larry, struck the girl several times.

Order violation charged
Edward James Hancock, 38, of 2820 Dogwood Drive, was arrested on a warrant alleging violation of an order of protection. He was taken into custody at 10:30 a.m. June 18 at Johnson Road and Wabash Avenue and later was released on $102 cash bail.

Cash, checks missing
Basil Williams, of Rock Road, reported that on June 15 about $250 in cash and a $125 check were missing from a table at his home. Police are investigating.

Stereo equipment taken
Bradley Singleton, 321 W. Chain of Rocks Road, said June 15 a window was broken at his home and stereo equipment worth $1,950 was taken.

$1,850 in property taken
Taken from the flatbed of a tractor trailer were $1,850 worth of equipment, including tarpaulins, heavy duty chains and other load-securing devices. Driver Richard Poli said the theft occurred early June 17 at the parking lot of a motel in the 600 block of West Chain of Rocks Road. The equipment was owned by Larry Welker Farm Co. of Lutesville, Mo.

Burglar damages auto
Janet Wickham, of 13 Briarcliff Drive, said that early June 25 someone broke the driver's window of her auto and removed a radar detector while her car was parked in front of her home.

Auto offense charged
Jeff Means, 18, of 3107 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested on a warrant for an offense relating to motor vehicles at 1:30 p.m. June 24 for the alleged possession of the 1989 auto of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pickett, 4907 Kirkpatrick Homes. Cash bail was set at $2,502.

Bike, car hit; boy hurt
Bicyclist Kenneth R. Nicol, 4, of 406 Kirkpatrick Homes, was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after a collision within the housing project between his bicycle and a car driven by Susan K. Padgett, 4403 Kirkpatrick Homes, at 3 p.m. June 24. The child was listed in satisfactory condition by a medical center spokesman.

Cars looted on Shirlin
A rash of car burglaries occurred after midnight June 18 on Shirlin Drive in Arlington Heights.

Cindi Strotheide, 1 Shirlin Drive, reported that speakers, valued at $60, were taken from her 1985 auto. Ron Barrios, 81 Shirlin, said a $600 radio and speakers were missing from his 1974 car. Eugene Pohlman, also of 81 Shirlin, said a radio, valued at $65, was taken from his 1985 auto, and Judy Robertson, 49 Shirlin, said a radio worth $50 was taken from her 1980 car.

Two recorders missing
Two video cassette recorders, one valued at $328 and the other recorder's value unknown, were reported missing at 3:15 p.m. June 23 by Vivian Dine of Rock Road.

$520 stolen from truck
Floyd Leggion of Shreveport, La., told police at 2:26 a.m. June 24 he returned to his parked truck and saw two women jump from the cab and run away. Missing were $120 of his money and $400 cash belonging to his employer, VB&P Trucking Lines.

Auto strikes building
Charles E. Cook, 59, of 3704 Franklin Ave., began to experience an asthma attack and lost consciousness momentarily, with his auto striking the Herring Flowers and Gifts shop at 2700 Madison Ave., he told police at 6:45 p.m. June 19.

Cook was attempting to turn left to go north on Madison Avenue from eastbound 27th Street. He sustained an injury but declined immediate medical attention, police said. There was extensive damage to merchandise inside the store, reports said.

Frohardt students recognized

GRANITE CITY — Frohardt Elementary School's awards assembly was held near the close of the spring semester.

Students were recognized from all grades for academic and fitness achievements which they earned throughout the year. Certificates were presented to the students recognized.

A trophy was presented to sixth grader David Fielding for having the most outstanding exhibit in the District 9 science fair.

Physical education teacher Susan Smith presented J.B. Anderson and Cindy Fisher with gold medals for their performances in the Sports Day events and for qualifying as outstanding athletes in physical performance tests.

Lucille DeLay, Campbell's

Soup label chairperson, presented hats with the Campbell's logo to the 20 students who turned in the most labels.

A special perfect-attendance trophy was presented to sixth grader Jon Duft, who had a perfect attendance record throughout his elementary school years.

The Tom Jones award was presented to sixth grader Amanda Nicole Stack, daughter of Robert and Christine Stack, 3105 Wayne Ave.

The award was presented by Dr. Greg Jones, son of Tom Jones, former principal and teacher at Frohardt.

To qualify for the award, a student must exhibit outstanding character, dependability, academic achievement and school involvement and be selected by Frohardt teachers.

Outdoor classroom grants being offered

The Madison County Environmental Education Committee will make a $200 and a $100 grant for the two best outdoor classroom proposals submitted.

The purpose of the grants is to encourage proposals to develop or improve outdoor classrooms so that students have a special area for the teaching of environmental education.

"The MCEEC will award the money in October 1987. This will give teachers the entire summer to develop a proposal," a spokesman said.

They may contact the Madison County Environmental Education Committee, c/o Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District, P.O. Box 482, Edwardsville 62025 or may call 618-516 and ask for Larry Firkus.

Special education positions created

GRANITE CITY — Three special education positions were created Tuesday by the District 9 School Board.

Two special education teaching positions and a special education aide's position were created.

One of the teachers will be at Prather Elementary School.

To qualify for the award, a student must exhibit outstanding character, dependability, academic achievement and school involvement and be selected by Frohardt teachers.

The special education aide will be at Grigsby, he said.

On honor roll

Della Corbitt, Granite City, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Corbitt, is among those on the President's Honor Roll at Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Mo.

Sixth Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker said she thinks Harris could do more to find out if officers were using drugs.

"I heard the chief even mentioned four officers who were using drugs... that's his job to find out. He's supposedly head of that department. If he had a tip, he should follow up on that tip," Whitaker said.

Church marks 90th anniversary

They donated land for a school, a Catholic church, and a Protestant church in the area. It is also noted that the Mitchell brothers were Baptist and they donated money to the construction of a Protestant church, with the understanding the church would be Baptist. However, it also stated that the land donated for the Protestant church was given with a stipulation, that the title of the property would be awarded only after any one denomination had established and operated the church for 12 consecutive years.

An old newspaper report notes the first load of rock for the construction of the Protestant church was hauled by Frank Troeckler, foreman for the Mitchell brothers, in 1871. The article also states that, "typical of the times, the church was built with the combined labor of the area residents."

There seems to be a general agreement that the first Protestant church in the Mitchell area was located about where Donaldson's Cafe now stands, on the south side of east Chain of Rocks Road and about a block east of Route 208. Apparently the first congregation to occupy the church were Baptist, but it seems this group did not remain for more than a few years. Later there was a movement to tear down the church since it was inactive. However, the Presbyterian denomination agreed to operate it. But it also fell short of the 12 years occupancy for ownership. Research turned up no information on what happened to the building that was begun in 1871. The original building, occupied by the present Presbyterian gations that some officers use drugs and that such allegations must be investigated to clear the department's image, she said.

"If there are a few bad apples... I think we should get rid of them. There are a lot of good policemen are going to suffer because of this. I don't think that's fair," she said.

Harris said he often hears rumors about illegal drug use among city workers and private citizens. He said the rumors are usually not backed up by evidence.

"You cannot combat rumors. I hear it about the fire department... I hear it about the street department and other citizens in Granite City," Harris said.

Harris said the department is going to "bad rap" because of the rumors.

Harris said he expected the police union to endorse the testing program.

Asked why allegations of illegal drug use and other recent problems within the police department had not been brought up at council meetings, Whitaker said she thought aldermen didn't want to get involved.

"Everybody has to be hush-hush. Everybody is just sitting back and waiting to see what happens," she said.

One representative, Austin Donnelly, did not expect any problems with being granted construction and operating permits from the EPA.

"We've never had a state stop us. We did have a problem with one of the first Protests. I don't know what your are doing. It's scary," Donnelly said.

Donnelly said the process to extract valuable minerals and precious metals left from steel manufacturing. The plant in Granite City will process waste from the area's steel industry.

Orbital said it will take the EPA about a year to approve an operating permit for Eticam.

Donnelly said Eticam's permit application for the Granite City plant is modeled after the permit for the company's Rhode Island plant, which was approved by the EPA there.

denomination was erected in 1897, and is credited to John J. and Mary Kathryn Mitchell.

There is almost no records of the history of these early years.

Some 50 years after the construction of the first Protestant church, members of the congregation obtained the services of a student minister named Thornton. It is reported that for preaching and looking after the pastoral needs of the congregation he was paid $3 per week. It is believed that this arrangement continued four or five years. Apparently, the student minister was Presbyterian. It was during this period of service, in 1907, that Mrs. Ida Hanfelder moved into the Mitchell area and became active in the Protestant church. When the minister resigned, it was thought the church might again become inactive, but Mrs. Hanfelder conferred with the Rev. C.E. Bowman of the Presbyterian Church in East St. Louis. He presented the need of the Mitchell Church to the Presbytery who then appointed the Rev. N.C. Griffin to serve the church in Mitchell.

At that time he was pastor of the Winstanley Presbyterian Church in East St. Louis, where he lived until he served the Mitchell Church in addition to his other duties.

He was able to travel between the two churches by using the interurban streetcar which operated in the area at that time. Sunday worship services at the Mitchell church were held in the afternoon. Apparently the Presbyterian leadership was more tenacious than previous efforts as the Rev. Griffin was appointed to serve the church exclusively in 1923 and became the first in a long line of Presbyterian ministers to serve the church up to this day.

Former pastors include Rev.

N.C. Griffin 1923-40, Rev. Walter Lindemann 1940-41, Rev. Daniel A. Moore 1941-44, Rev. F. Fink 1945-47, Rev. Hobart Chapin served 1947, Rev. Frank Campbell 1948-57, and the first full-time minister for the church was the Rev. John DiGiacomo, who served 11 1/2 years, from 1957-68, Rev. W.E. Reipschlagler 1971-75, Rev. Jeffrey Cheadle 1977-81 and the Rev. Linda Shugert, the present minister began her ministry at the church in 1982.

As the church was non-sectarian, any church holding services for 12 consecutive years would be deemed this property. On April 4, 1920, the Mitchell Presbyterian Church was organized. Services were held for the required 12 years and in 1937 the church was deemed to be a Church Extension Committee of Alton Presbytery, by the Mitchell Presbytery.

On the morning of March 30, 1958, the original church was destroyed by fire. Services were then held in the Catholic Parish Hall, a short distance from the burned out church.

In order to have more space and to save money from the railroad tracks, it was decided to rebuild the church at the present site, Greenway Drive and East Chain of Rocks Road. The present building was erected in 1957 and dedicated in 1958.

Since that first meeting on April 4, 1920 the congregation has grown from 13 members to 128 members in 1987. The minister, now living in parsonage built in 1971 primarily by William Norris with the assistance of other members of the congregation.

The commemorative plates, made of metal, are available and can be bought from any church member.

Journals buy Monroe County papers

Monroe County Publishing Co., a subsidiary of Ingersoll Newspapers Inc. of Princeton, N.J., has announced the purchase of five Illinois weekly newspapers, in Monroe and Madison counties, from the Clarion Printing Co.

The sale, which will be completed June 30, includes the Monroe County Clarion, the Columbia Star, the Monroe County Reporter, the Millstadt Enterprise and the Enterprise Shop.

The newspapers have a combined circulation of 21,450.

David B. Carr, president of Ingersoll said, "I am extremely pleased and excited to have these publications added to our family of metropolitan St. Louis newspaper companies."

The Clarion Printing Co., owned by John and Michael Conrad, will continue its commercial printing business under the name Conrad Press Ltd.

Ingersoll made its first investment in the St. Louis metropolitan area in May 1984 when it purchased the Bick and Donnelly suburban newspaper group. With the purchase from Clarion Printing, Ingersoll now will publish six community newspapers in Missouri and Illinois including the Granite City Press-Record/Journal, Cahokia Daily Journal, and the East St. Louis News-Journal.

One out of ten women will develop breast cancer.

Perhaps the two most frightening words to a woman are breast cancer. The number one killer of females, breast cancer is a disease caused by an uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells in the breast tissue. But with detection, effective treatment can be started immediately, improving the patient's prognosis. The survival rate among women who find cancer before it is noticeable is 97 percent.

To answer the need for early detection of breast disease, St. Elizabeth Medical Center has established the Breast Diagnostic Program, which provides mammographies at almost one-fourth the cost of procedures being done elsewhere. A convenient diagnostic procedure, mammograms provide patients with high quality, high sensitivity images with minimal radiation exposure.

Following the American Cancer Society's guidelines, this simple, painless exam is currently the best method of detecting breast disease. The ACS recommends all women age 35 to 40 have an initial, routine mammogram; diagnostic exams periodically between age 40 and 50; and yearly exams after age 50.

How many will detect it in time?

Scheduling for the general public will begin Monday, June 1, and will end on Friday, July 31. Normally, such a procedure would cost $95 to $100. Subsidized by the Gussie Glik Cancer Fund, this procedure is now available for a limited time for only $25, which includes the interpretation fee. A physician's referral is required.

Club studies mock oranges

Cloverview Garden Club, hosted by Louise Sedlack, met at the Grand Cafe for a dessert luncheon served to Mesdames Kenneth Brokaw, Clarence Etheridge, Charles Gandoria, B.C. O'Neill, Donald Tabor, Albert Taylor and Ray Williamson.

Following the luncheon, President Williamson called the meeting to order. The members answered roll call by naming harmful garden insects.

Etheridge, O'Neill and Tabor attended a rose luncheon at Edwardsville, the president said. After a discussion, plans were finalized for a plant and rummage sale to be held in September. Two Spirea plants were planted at the Old Six Mile Historic Museum.

The new yearbooks, made by O'Neill, were presented to the members. A birthdate was presented to Colonial Haven Nursing Home, along with plants and bulbs for a flower bed surrounding it.

This is the club's continuing project. After adjournment the club went to the nursing home to see the landscape.

The study was on "Mock Orange," given by Tabor, and a specimen was brought by Williamson.

Most types of mock oranges have an intensely sweet, orange-blossom fragrance, the speaker said. This scent fills many gardens during two weeks in early summer as the shrubs bear masses of white 1- to 2½-inch flowers. The flowers are single, with one row of petals, or double with numerous overlapping petals.

Modern varieties have dull green leaves, 1 to 3 inches long, that are seldom bothered by insects or diseases. There is a wide range in mature sizes, from 3 to 9 feet, providing types suitable for almost any purpose, it was noted.

The sweet mock orange, the most common variety in old gardens, is native to Europe and is one of the ancestors of the majority of the hybrids sold today.

All eight varieties of mock orange are easy to cultivate; they thrive in full sun or light shade in almost any soil, but do best in moist but well-drained soil supplemented with peat moss, leaf mold or compost.

They should be pruned immediately after flowering by removing the outer stems that have borne flowers, the club was told. Each cut should be made just above a strong growing bud or new shoot. New plants can be started from cuttings of young growth in late spring, or wood cuttings of more mature growth in mid-summer.

There will be no meetings in July and August. Hostess for September will be Mrs. George Knapp, 17 Ginger Lake West, Edwardsville.

Venice, Madison pastors discuss forming alliance for Venice and Madison

A meeting was held this month by an exploratory committee to organize a Ministerial Alliance of Venice and Madison. The group assembled at the New Salem Baptist Church of Venice. Prayer was given by the Rev. Richard DeBoe.

Present were Rev. John H. Williams, New Salem Baptist; Rev. James Harrell, Friendship Baptist Church; Rev. John Q. Owens, Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church; Rev. DeBoe, Mount Nebo Baptist Church; and Rev. William Wise, Southern Missionary Baptist Church. The group decided to meet again on June 30 at 7 p.m. at the Southern Missionary Baptist Church to elect officers and adopt goals.

Rev. Owens distributed a copy of goals of the A.M.E. Ministerial Alliance of Los Angeles for 1987. After discussing the merits of the goals, the local ministers agreed that goals should be developed in 10 areas—social ethics, preaching, church administration, evangelism, prayer, pastoral care and visitation, crisis counseling, drug and chemical abuse, black family unit past and present, and theological trends and updating.

DAR members at division meet

Four members of Drusilla Andrews Chapter of National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution traveled to Altamont, Ill., for a Division VI roundtable meeting.

Ninety members represented 19 chapters. Also attending were state and national officers, as well as the state chairman.

Walter Burdick Chapter of Marshall, Ill., served as host chapter and the meeting was conducted by Division VI Director Mrs. A. H. Schlesinger of New Athens.

The new Illinois state regent, Mrs. Ronald Mordhorst of Belleville, participated. She announced the national theme, "United thus, and thus united, free!" and the state theme, "And the leaves of the tree shall be for the healing of the people."

The state organization will strive to repair two monuments. The Madonna of the Trail monument, under the name of the state, and the Lincoln Trail State Memorial, east of Lawrenceville, commemorating the 1830 crossing by the Lincoln family from Indiana into Illinois.

Drusilla Andrews received the Continental Congress Award for use of the theme in its program titles and for conservation of printing funds for the chapter yearbook. Chapter members attending the division meeting were Emma Schoen, Florence Simpson, Linda Koenig and Barbara Williams.

Chapter KU ends season

The final meeting of the season for the P.E.O. Sisterhood, Chapter KU, was held in the home of Barbara Houston of 3121 Ash Ave.

A dessert course was served to Ruth Ann Bartels, Jo Ann Burckley, Fay Carlisle, Mary Dame, Carol Davis, Hulda M. Davis, Martha Delevick, Barbara Houston, Rebecca Jones, Jean Maxwell, Mary McCarty, Mary Mullen, Sandy Palovich, Elizabeth Rea and Beth Spengler.

Also attending was Mary Dame's mother, Dorothy Fulkerson, a member of Chapter LR of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A report was given by Mary Mullen. She said a recipient of the P.E.O. Educational Fund, one of the chapter's projects, returned to school at the University of Maine to work toward additional degrees in soil science, after working in Alaska in the field of wildlife biology and forestry.

The program was presented by President Mary McCarty. She attended the Illinois P.E.O. convention in Springfield, and displayed favors and photographs.

The chapter's next meeting will be held in September.

Granite City BPW installs

Officers for the 1987-88 year of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's organization were installed at a dinner meeting held at Charlie's Restaurant.

Becky Slate, president, welcomed members and guests. The collect was given by Helene Bischoff and the Pledge of Allegiance was led by Kathy Clark.

Following dinner, Slate introduced Darrell Harrison, who entertained with several selections on the guitar.

She then introduced Lil Marzuff, District XIV director, as the installing officer. Marzuff is an active member and past president of the local organization.

Assisting in the installation ceremony were the outgoing officers. Each officer presented her counterpart to Marzuff, who informed each one of duties and responsibilities of the office.

Each was then pinned by the retiring officer with a BPW pin and the symbol signifying her office.

Those installed were Ramona Burnett, secretary, introduced by Carole Buehler and pinned with a quill; Kathy Dillon, treasurer, introduced by Hazel Rollins and pinned with a key; Jeanne Hornberger and Jane Isenbarg, vice presidents, introduced by Kathy Clark and Lisa Fanning and each pinned with a torch; and Rosalie Stern, president, Becky Slate introduced Stern and presented her a BPW pin and a gavel. Stern also served as president of the organization in 1986.

The new officers were presented to the members by Marzuff. Slate was given a past president pin by Stern, who also presented a gift of appreciation to her for conducting the installation.

Stern in her acceptance speech said her issues are education, networking, cooperation and growth.

In addition, BPW Federation focus issues will be included in this year's program. They are pay equity, supporting women in the workplace, the changing family, and involving women in the political process.

Stern named the following members to serve as chairmen of committees: program, Jane Isenbarg; membership, Jeanne Hornberger; finance, Cynthia Clark; legislation, Pat Gowas; public relations, Pat Musick; fundraiser, Janet Mills; young careerist, Kathy Clark; National Business Women's Week, Lisa Fanning; and the new year's party, Stille, newsletter editor, Florence Moore; community relations, Pat Box; individual development coordinator, Annellen P. Smith; historian, Pauline Weir; and parliamentary advisor, Helene Bischoff.

A business session was conducted by Slate. The organization voted to participate in the Shriners parade. The BPW Clown Unit marched and Jane Isenbarg was in charge.

Congratulations were extended to serve as delegates at the national convention to be held in July at Honolulu, Hawaii. Alternates, delegates, elected were Becky Slate and Edna Trower.

Slate announced the Southern Leadership Conference June 14 at Carbondale and the 1988 state convention April 21-24 at the Adam's Mark Hotel, St. Louis.

Congratulations were extended to Florence Moore upon being elected president of the Granite City Public Library board.

Slate was presented several gifts. Stern presented her a gift from her officers and committee chairmen, and Lisa Fanning presented her a scrapbook which contained all of the events and activities, with photographs of accomplishments by the organization in 1986-87.

Slate thanked all members "for making 1986-87 another memorable year," highlighted by winning "Club of the Year" for the second consecutive year in District XIV. Each officer and chairman received a memento of appreciation from her.

Pauline Weir, public relations chairman for the past two years, presented members of her committee with tokens of appreciation.

Guests were Anabel Woodring, past state president, Collinsville, and Joe Stern, Cy Corbin, Nadine Ryan, Vee Thorne, Alice Thompson, Evelyn Chambers, Angie Buehler, Mary Peck and Mary Geroff.

Serving with Slate on the installation committee were the following past presidents: Helene Bischoff, Joyce Bennington, Annellen P. Smith, Lorene Sad-Adams, Pauline Weir and Emily Alford.

Six-run first sends Triplets past Belleville

By Gina Reynolds
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Smoking bats and strong pitching were on hand Thursday as the Tri-City Triplets grabbed a 10-4 win from Belleville.

"When you get that many runs, you can win a lot of games," Tri-City coach Ralph Burnett said.

The game was won in the first inning as the Triplets unloaded on the Hilgards, scoring six runs on as many hits.

Twins Tim and Jamie Hogan led off with a pair of singles which set the stage for hard-hitting Todd Hinterser.

Hinterser sent a shot off the glove of center fielder Joe See, allowing two runs to score. John Moad followed with a single, adding another run to the scoreboard.

Second baseman Jeff Grote singled, and after a sacrifice by first baseman Scott LeVault, Moad scored on a single by Tim Patterson. Tim Hogan's second hit sent another run home, giving the Triplets a 6-0 lead.

Although the first three innings were quiet for Belleville, the Triplets weren't content to sit on a six-run lead.

Hinterser started the second with a fence-clearing home run and after a double by catcher Joe Wallace and yet another single from Patterson, Wallace scored the Triplets' eighth run on a double play.

Pitcher Darin Hendrickson mowed down the Hilgards in the first three innings, only to walk himself into trouble in the fourth. But, after walking the bases loaded, he pitched his way out of the inning by striking out the final two batters.

The Triplets went to work again in the fourth and fifth, adding three more runs to their score, as the crew of Wallace, Moad and Hinterser provided the bulk of the hitting.

After giving up only one run in the fifth and then striking out two in the sixth, Hendrickson faced problems in the seventh inning, giving up hits to the first three batters.

"He (Hendrickson) was in trouble the last three innings, but he got out of it," Burnett said.

But he didn't put an end to his troubles until three runs had scored, two on a single by Belleville designated hitter Pete Wessel.

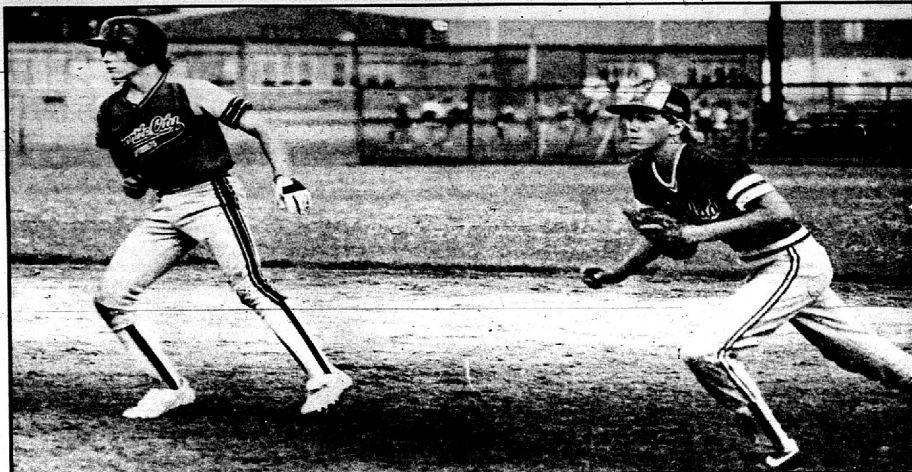

However, Hendrickson struck out another pair of Hilgards. And after an infield fly to Grote, he locked up a nine-strikeout victory.

"Darin pitched real well," Burnett said. "He was in command of his pitches until he got tired."

"We've gotten good pitching the last three games, we have good offense and we're still not making any errors."

With the win, the Triplets boosted their record to 5-5 (4-2 in District 22 play), pleasing Burnett.

"I was really proud of them," he said. "Tonight they finished the game with authority."

JOE WALLACE takes a lead off first base during the Optimists game Monday against Highland. Wallace had a couple of hits to help the Triplets defeat Belleville Thursday. The Optimists were rained out again Thursday in Red Bud.

They faced Flora in a double-header Saturday and host East St. Louis at 6 p.m. Monday. The Triplets played a pair of games in Trenton Saturday and host Waterloo and Marissa Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Steamers feel lucky to get Trittschuh

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

The St. Louis Steamers were breathing a sigh of relief when they were able to draft Steve Trittschuh Wednesday.

"Our thought when we went into the draft was we were going to draft Steve first," said Steamers general manager Mike Sanger. "But since we didn't have a pick until the second round, we were convinced he would be gone before we had a chance to make a choice."

"So we were trying to make a deal to move up in the draft. But we didn't, and he was still available when it came our turn to pick. So we got him and we didn't have to trade anything away."

One reason why Trittschuh wasn't taken in the first round might have been because he didn't attend what amounted to a Major Indoor Soccer League audition in Cleveland the week before the draft. Sixty of the nation's best college players were in attendance before the watchful eyes of MISL coaches and scouts.

But Trittschuh, who is easily among the top 60 college players, decided not to attend. He had been busy playing outdoors with the U.S. National team and decided to take the time off.

"It was my decision not to go," Trittschuh said. "I probably been playing a lot lately. That probably was one reason why I didn't go higher."

But Trittschuh and the Steamers are very happy with the way things turned out. Coach Tony Glavin contacted Trittschuh Wednesday night.

"It was just a matter of them touching base with me," Trittschuh said. "I probably won't talk in detail with them until I get back from Yugoslavia."

Trittschuh leaves today for Denver for training for the World University Games in Yugoslavia July 15-19. The Pan American Games are in Indianapolis in August. Sometime in the interval, contract negotiations will likely begin.

"I know he is going to be out of town until the third week of July," Sanger said. "After that, I hope we can sit down with him and talk."

The Steamers are aware of Trittschuh's desire to play in the Olympics, but Sanger doesn't see it as a problem.

"We will never stand in the way of anyone's desire to play in the Olympics," he said. "Our training camp will start the last week of September or the first week of October. And I would guess Tony will have some sort of pre-training camp time for the draft choices."

The Steamers have veterans like Tim Schulz returning on the backline and they are also negotiating new contracts for stand-out veterans Sam Bick and Tony Bellingier, but Sanger is certain Trittschuh can make an impact.

"We've seen him play and he's quite impressive," Sanger said. "The fact that he is a local player is nice, but it's not the overriding factor with us anymore. We just feel Steve can play for us."

Trittschuh had 12 goals and 11 assists in four years at SIUE, where he was a two-time All-American. He was also a high school All-American at Granite City North, from where he graduated in 1983. He played in all 71 games in his four-year career with the Cougars.

It's the third straight year the Steamers have selected an SIUE player first. They had taken Bill Stallings in 1985 and Chris Hunt in last year. John Stone of SIUE, a forward from Alton Marquette, was taken by the Wichita Wings three picks after Trittschuh. Stone had 30 goals and 15 assists in his career to finish as the eighth leading scorer in Cougar history.

PSG soccer teams dominated by Granite City, Collinsville

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

As could be expected, Granite City and Collinsville dominated the soccer rosters for the Prairie State Games.

The balance of power the two towns share in area soccer is especially evident on the scholastic women's team for Region 8. The 16-member team has one girl, Nancy Shafer, from O'Fallon. The other 15 players are from Granite City or Collinsville.

The Lady Warriors lead the way with eight players, but the Lady Kahoks are right behind with seven. Amy Moore, Ann Krystopa, Becky Whitehead, Marta Mendoza, Kim Ames, Laura Goodman, Lisa Kull and Chris Kasprovin account for half of the squad.

Collinsville players on head coach Norm Seim's squad are Jackie Herren, Jamie Casillas, Kelly Van Hoose, Julie Corrie, Mary Pat Leane, Kim Thompson and Laurie Williamson.

"We're in pretty good shape with those two towns," said Seim. "I think it's a pretty strong squad. We didn't have a whole lot of girls try out this year in comparison to other years. But we still had some quality competition for spots."

"Almost all of these girls were playing on state select teams, so they saw a lot of the other players from around the state. They seem to think the competition will be pretty tough from all of the teams."

Things are much the same with Ruben Mendoza's open women's team. Fifteen of the 20 women on his roster are from the two cities, including 12 from Granite City.

Laura James, Terri Schuler,

Ruben Mendoza

Dee Dee Durborrow, Pat Flanagan, Maria Para, Julie Macios, Jo Ann Macios, Susan Bueger, Diana (Pope) Fancher, Jennifer Boyer, Susanna Boyer and Patricia Atkinson make up 60 percent of the squad for Mendoza, known as "Mr. Soccer" in Granite City. Collinsville is represented by Shelly Sarraich, Mary Furfaro and Diana McCarthy.

All of these players are either attending or are graduates of SIUE except Durborrow (Eastern Illinois), Furfaro (Lewis University), Para, Jo Ann Macios and Susanna Boyer.

Rounding out Mendoza's roster are Kim Thompson and Helen Robinson of Edwardsville, Carol Verdu and Laura Whelstone of Belleville, and Laurie Schutzenhofer of Fairview Heights.

"This might be the best team we have ever had," said Mendoza, who has coached the Region

8 open women's team all three years. "We will have one more roster cutdown before we go up, and it will be tough. Everybody is looking good."

The Pioneer team (Region 3) has given us some tough competition up there and they are supposed to be good again."

Mike Moore, the coach of the open men's team, has a more even distribution of players. Four are from Collinsville and three are from Granite City. Collinsville contributes Rich Reininger (McKendree College), Mark Mahat (McKendree), Jim O'Donnell (Evansville) and Tony Ellis. Granite City natives on the team are Andy Paz (SIUE), Dennis Gaudreault (Lewis and Clark Community College) and Rich Sogobiano (Western Illinois).

The rest of the squad is Tom Stone of Alton-Marquette (Southern Illinois), Chris Kane of Alton (Bradley U.), Ralph Wappel and C.J. Eason of Belleville (WIU), Roger Landman of Highland (SIUE), Jayver Laque of Nashville (native of Collinsville), and Jim Jackson, Jim Applebaum, G.P. Boyer, Steve Range and Jeff Methard of SIUE.

"We will probably make some further cuts before we go to Champaign," Moore said. "Right now, I would say we are a little short on defenders. And the thing is we haven't had everybody on hand for all the workouts. We'll know how good we are when we can get everybody together."

There were no Granite City players who tried out for the scholastic men's team coached by Phil Aleman. The Prairie State Games will be in Champaign July 15-18.

Sports briefs

Local man on way to national contest

Until a month and a half ago, Jim Wolfe was basically a normal sort of guy who did the kinds of things normal guys do. He went to Cardinal ball games. He bowled. He puttered around the basement of his home. He built model airplanes. Then one day Wolfe, 32, entered a songwriting contest in St. Louis sponsored by KEZK Radio and Maxwell House Coffee. What he kept, why not? He thought it seemed like a fun thing to do. At least he'd get a free T-shirt.

But, lo and behold, he won. The best song about St. Louis, said the judges, hands down. That was the end of normalcy for Wolfe.

Now he's bound for Hollywood, where he'll compete against finalists from 17 other cities June 29 in a national songwriting contest, also sponsored by Maxwell House.

It will be quite a trip. He and his wife will have dinner at the Hard-Rock Cafe in Beverly Hills. They'll tour Universal Studios. His lyrical entry will be judged by recording stars Mary Wells, Del Shannon and Billy Vera, among others. Dionne Warwick will be the host for the competition at Chasen's Restaurant in Hollywood. And if he wins, he'll get to see a Warwick concert, meet her backstage and receive a free recording session.

All this for a "humble audio visual producer from the Midwest" who is beset by mixed feelings of happiness and trepidation.

"I have to admit I'm a little intimidated," by the place more than anything," Wolfe said of his trip. Formerly employed at St. Elizabeth's Center in Granite City, he lives in north St. Louis County.

"I've never been to Hollywood before. The only images of Hollywood and Beverly Hills I have are those I've gained through the movies and the media of the entertainment scene. The Hard Rock Cafe I'm used to is a Holiday Inn. It's all kind of crazy."

Wolfe's winning entry in the St. Louis contest was titled "St. Louis: It's the Way." The idea was to write lyrics for a 60-second tune about the city, using Maxwell House's "It's the Way" melody.

Wolfe's song is laced with references to St. Louis landmarks, such as the Gateway Arch, the Mississippi River, the St. Louis Symphony, the Old Courthouse Dome and Cardinal baseball. "I did most of the writing in my car, while driving around," Wolfe said. "The ideas seemed to come in spurts. Sometimes a line would pop in and I would be able to fill the verse, bridge, chorus. Then there'd be a lag and then another spurt."

The St. Louis song refers to places, mainly "things that I like and things that people can easily identify," said Wolfe. "You have to have the Arch in there. Leaving it out would be like writing about Washington and forgetting the Washington Monument."

"The Arch and the river were the basic building blocks. I had Ozzie Smith hitting a home run because I was fortunate enough to be at Game 5 of the '85 playoffs (when Smith's home run gave the Cardinals the victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers). The summer storm reference is in there because I've always been a weather nut."

The song looks simple, but writing it wasn't. "The first verse, I agonized a good month before I came up with something. I was happy because I was boiling down St. Louis or America in 60 seconds is a real challenge — a puzzle, even."

The St. Louis contest was held in early May at Union Station. The only thing that made Wolfe nervous was the stipulation that you had to sing your entry. Well, I had played trumpet in the high school band, but I'm not a singer. It was kind of like going from zero to 80 in one second."

Wolfe finished his presentation by wearing a Cardinals visor and adding some backup vocals to the audio tape of the song's melody. When he found out he had won, Wolfe said, "I was shocked. During rehearsal I thought some of the other people were pretty good. One contestant had been in 'The Munny' before, and was really belting it out. I was definitely surprised."

Having won the St. Louis competition, Wolfe had to write yet another song. The rules generally were the same. It had to be 60 seconds, using the Maxwell House melody. But this time the song had to be about "America — The Country Made Our Way."

Wolfe changed the concept a little. "In the national lyrics, I wrote more about images, general things that represent the country as a whole," he said. "It was much more difficult."

Wolfe's national song refers to such things as the Statue of Liberty, Fourth of July celebrations, autumn in the Rockies, baseball, agriculture, Dixieland music and the Apollo moon landing.

The judges in Hollywood already have the song. Competing entries arrived from contestants from Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Denver, Detroit, Kansas City, Miami, Milwaukee, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Nashville, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Portland, San Francisco and Seattle.

Wolfe is not a professional songwriter or musician, although he does use music a lot in producing audio/visual programs for clients of his business, Wolfe Creative Media Services, which he operates out of his home in Spanish Lake.

A 1973 graduate of Hazelwood High School and 1977 graduate of SIUE, Wolfe was a public relations specialist for Brown Shoe Co. and St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City before starting out on his own four years ago.

He doesn't think his new-found notoriety as a songwriter will cause him to change careers. "Oh yes, it would be great if lightning struck twice and I won," he said. "It would be wonderful. There will be 17 people there from other cities and I assume all of them will be relatively good. But I don't see this as leading onto a songwriting career."

"I did this mainly for fun. It's kind of a flash in the pan."

Good idea to make VP Fair plans early

VP Fair-goers who want to get away from the crowd to view the festival and fireworks shows from a hotel or restaurant should plan ahead. In most cases, even a year ahead.

Riverfront hotels and restaurants that offer special packages for rooms and nightly fireworks displays sell out quickly, and this year is no different. When planning for next year's fair, reserve rooms and call for dinner reservations early, is the advice given by the St. Louis Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Hotel rooms with a view of the riverfront are often booked a year in advance. Even rooms with downtown views go fast but the bureau suggests calling hotels to see if cancellations are available.

Restaurants with Arch views also report heavy bookings during the fair. The Clarion Hotel's revolving restaurant on the top floor offers a spectacular view of the fire works displays each night. Reservations are required and all seating with views of the fireworks are sold out early.

The Marriott Pavilion Hotel, which does not have a fairground view, is planning its July 4 party at No. 1 City Centre, the city's newest high-rise building. The party offers cocktails, dinner and dancing before viewing the fireworks. Reservations are required and can be made by calling 421-1776.

The Holiday Inn Riverfront will kick-off the VP Fair with a special after-the-parade party July 2, featuring Bob Kuban's Band on the promenade deck outside the hotel. One of the best views of the nightly fireworks is from the riverfront itself.

The Admiral has one of the largest parties planned and is expected to be an early sellout.

The boat is offering several different plans and three of them include viewing the fireworks. A daytime pass is available and allows visitors to leave the boat to attend the fair and then return.

A spokesperson for the Admiral expects all plans to be sold out and suggests calling 241-3155.

VP Fair better than ever

Visitors to the VP Fair never cease to be amazed by the variety of attractions, the enormous crowds and the changes in the fair from year to year. The next, Miss it and you just may be left out of the conversation at the water cooler Monday morning.

This year the VP Fair has a distinctly national focus. One of the events focusing the national spotlight on the fair is the first-ever U.S. National Senior Olympics. The six-day event will close as the fair opens. The two will be linked in what organizers say are the most elaborate opening ceremonies in the fair's six-year history.

The festivities will be moved from the Riverfront Overlook to the main stage under the Arch. They begin at 10 a.m. July 3.

Former Chief Justice Warren Burger, who is chairman of the National Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, will lead the crowd in reading the Constitution's preamble.

Burger also is honorary VP Fair chairman. Comedian Bob Hope will officially close the U.S. National Senior Olympics at 11:15 p.m. July 5. The show will feature his 45-minute show, William Webster, Central Intelligence Agency director, is expected to attend.

Another event, the bicentennial of the ratification of the U.S. Constitution, will give the fair a heightened patriotic appeal. Encyclopedia Britannica will host a three-part exhibit honoring the Constitution. "Blessings of Liberty," a 12-poster series, tells the story of the Constitution's origin. Historic flags of the United States and a presidential portrait gallery also will be on view.

And people across the country will see a portion of the fair. ABC Television will broadcast "A Star-Spangled Celebration" from 7 to 10 p.m. July 4. Most of the television special, which focuses on Project Liberty United States, will be filmed at the fair. The nucleus of the television special will be a 2½-hour show featuring about a dozen major entertainers who will perform July 5 under the Arch.

The ABC morning news show, "Good Morning, America," will be broadcast from the fairgrounds on July 3.

"Each year the fair is better than the previous year," said general chairman James S. McDonnell III. "We expect the 1987 fair to be the best ever."
